Last October, Art Naarden's (The Netherlands) intends to organise an extra art fair. All signals were green, and that convinced everyone that this fair would go ahead. So we did!

During the preparation, we asked several artists if they had small works of art available for us. Because, in addition to our collection of “large” paintings, we also wanted to present smaller pieces to the visitors of the fair. Just beautiful, affordable and small paintings and ceramics.

The intention was to pick up these artworks in St. Petersburg. However, due to the high risk of Corona contamination in Russia, we decided not to go. Luckily, someone went to Germany by car, and he offered to bring the artworks with him.

He travelled through Finland and delivered the parcels to Hannover.

In the meantime, we got information that Art Naarden could not continue. So we had no rush anymore to pick up the artworks. Later we realised that this decision not to our advantage.

Because when we wanted to collect the artworks in Hannover, the person who stored the packages for us was absent for a long time.

It took five months before we had the opportunity to collect the artworks again. Fortunately, this time had come in mid-February!

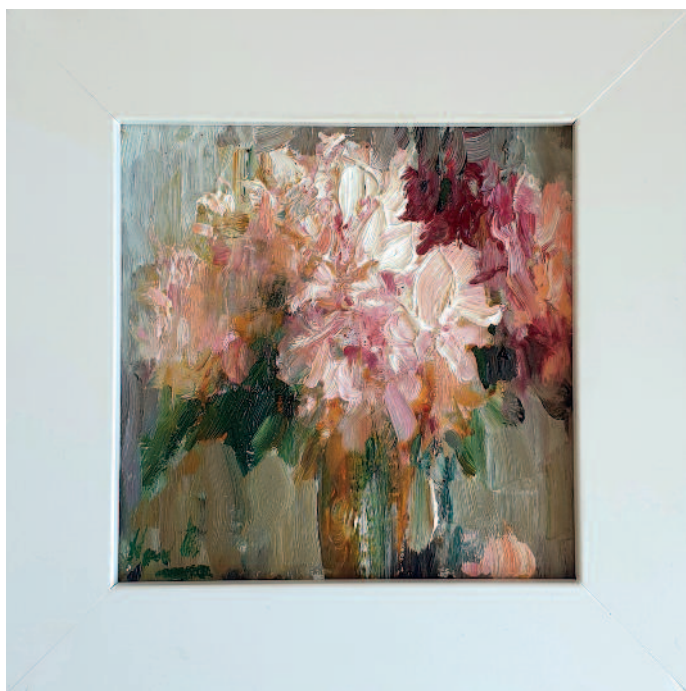

If you are interested in a work, you can order it through our webshop www.oudenhove.art or just email or call us!

With best regards,

In this catalogue, you will find works by various well-known Russian artists.

Alexander Savin

Alexander Savin's style is a mixture of romanticism and realism, with a keynote of stillness and "deja-vu" feelings. Savin's work covers various subjects, from romantic landscapes to historical and deeply philosophical works.

Anna Shabaeva

Anna manufactures decorative ceramics, which can safely be called innovative. When creating her ceramic artworks, she focuses on applying colour effects. The decorative layers she applies are usually executed in chamotte and are thematically connected to the world she knows well and loves.

Anatoly Novgorodov

Anatoly Novgorodov is a truly lyrical landscape painter. In his work, he succeeds in capturing the radiant air of spring in paint or portraying an abandoned village's poignant loneliness. He applies the paint thick and sketchy to make the structure in his landscapes visible.

Eugene Molev

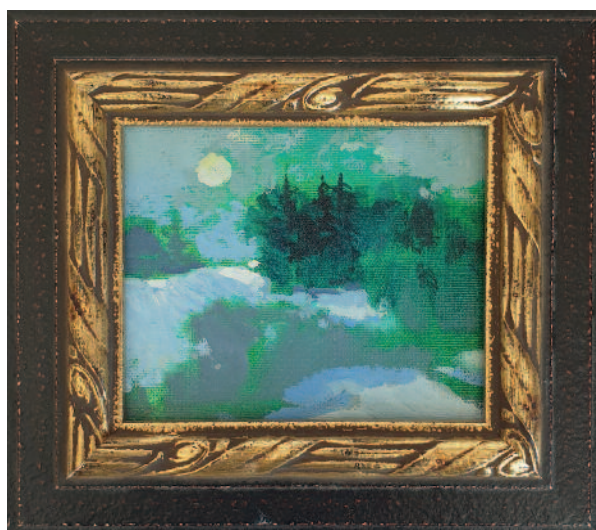

The consistency of its development distinguishes the artistic world of Eugene Molev's painting. The artist tries to capture the past by romanticizing the most beautiful parts of the preserved architecture.

Valery Strakhov

Valery Strakhov is a master of painting landscapes and urban areas in the North of Russia. He paints nature with convincing inspiration. His way of painting is immediately recognized and not forgotten afterwards. Strakhov's works are original, inimitable and of a high level of quality. It is traditional, significant and timeless, but always driven by his love for Russia.

Mikhail Sergeev

Mikhail Sergeev was born in 1967 in Novgorod, Russia. He developed into an important and influential painter. He gets his creative inspiration from historical sculptures' interests. His work is included in various museums and private collections.
